Components, Glossary and Terms

The Portal

The Next World Portal is the web application used to manage trainees, schedule training and view insights and results for training undertaken on The Next World Platform.

Here's a few things you can do on the Portal:

- Administer your company
- Get an overview of your company's training
- Enrol your trainees in training programs
- Find out who needs training
- View the outcomes from training

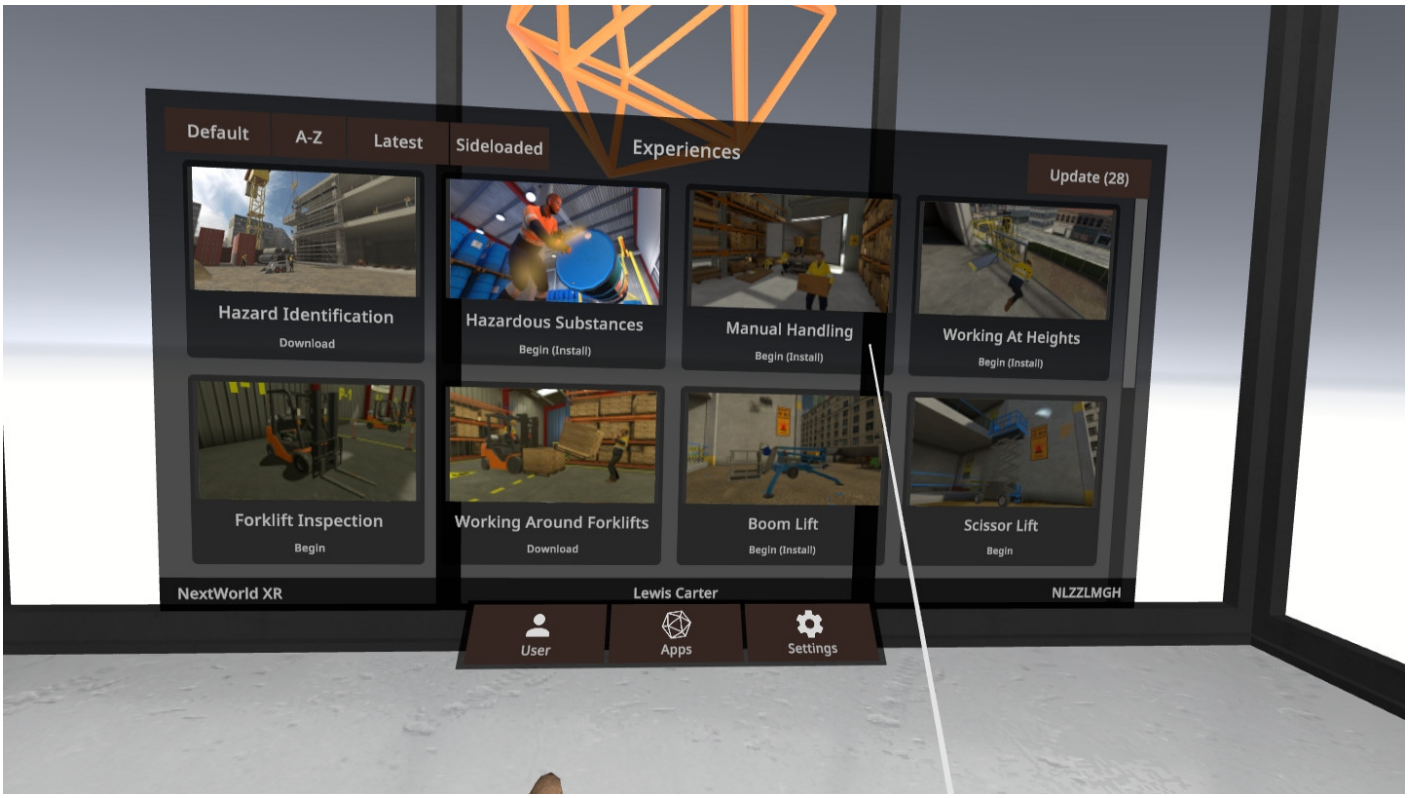

The Agent

The Next World Agent is an application and service that runs within your VR headset. Its purpose is to feed data to the Next World Platform and monitor for updates. Other than managing your system and connection settings, you shouldn't need to interact with this too much.

Home

Next World Home is the app you'll become most familiar with on your VR headset. It allows you to select and undertake training and provides access to the various learning experiences.

The Platform

The Platform is the umbrella term for Next World's software and cloud infrastructure. Next World's service and software constitute an absolutely massive technology base and The Platform is our name for it.
